TO MANAGE STATE POLITICS

Against His Will, and How He Yearns to Bose Again.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.-The Mail and Express in a long article this afternoon saye in brief: "There is a strong probability that David B. Hill will not return to his seat in the United States senate. If the decision of the matter rested wholly with Mr. Hill, there is no doubt that he would resign shortly after the session of the legislature is begun in January. There are many reasons for the action now credited to the junior senator from New York. Is is very well known to many that it was not the desire of Mr. Hill to go to the United States, senate as successor to the Hon. Wm. Maxwell Evarts. The legislature with Maxwell Evarts. The legislature had such a close democratic majority at the time of the senatorial election that there was every probability the senatorship would go to the highest bidder among the candidates unless Hill, who was then governor, would step in and take the place. It was partly to avoid scandial and partly to avoid scandial and partly to avoid scandial and partly to avoid scandial. unite all the members of the legislature that Hill became the candidate. Another particular reason, no doubt, rests largely in the fact that Mr. Hill's game in life is that of politics and it is his ambition to remain as the leader of the New York democracy, something he can best do by remaining altogether in the state and pursuing the practice of law."

UNIQUE METHODS.

How the Outgoing Postmasters Save Themselves Financially.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 .- It was stated at the postoffice department this morning that the percentage of resignations of fourth-class postmasters received up to date on account of the election has been considerably less than at the corresponding time four years ago. The largest number of resignations thus far has come from those of the third-class, which salaries range from $1,000 to $2,000 per annum. There are about fifty of them on file. The rea-son assigned for their resignations is that they are compelled under the law, to furnish the outht for their offices, consisting of lock boxes, office furniture, etc., which in some cases, costs several nundred dollars, often as high as $5,000. To protect themselves from total loss a practice it is alleged, has prevailed for the holding over post-masters to make an agreement with the most prominent candidate for the office by which the former resigns and o pens the way to a political opponent to succeed him, provided the latter purchases the office outfit. The resignation of the postmaster is then for-warded to the department and upon the appointment of his successor by the president the successful applicant pays for his predecessor's outfit.

BIMETALLIC UNION.

The Monetary Congress May Establish One if England Wishes.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23 .- A great deal of lobbying is going on among the delegates, those of one view on the subject of bi-metallism trying to win over the others. The result seems to be in English hands. A delegate who favors bi-metallism says that France, Belgium, Switzerland, Austria, Russia, the United States and India, all holding large stocks of silver, would be only too pleased to loin with Great Britain in establishing a bi-metallic union; Germany would have no motive for remaining outside; Egypt and the English colonies would follow Eng-land's lead. All the South American states, if only from considerations of convenience, would arrange themselves in line. It is no exaggeration to say that if England would lead the way, a world-wide bi-metall'c union could formed with more ease than the existing world-wide postal union.

The Germans seemed inclined to follow the lead of Great Britain. They say Germany is not immediately inter-ested in the rehabilitation of silver, and they argue that although, owing to an oversight, her great currency reform did not include a large stock of silver thaiers, about 100,000,000 in numher, which, if put into circulation, would still constitute legal tender, no practical difficulty has arisen from this mission. The gradual growth of the population and the normal demand for silver currency, would, it is held, enable the government at any time grad-ually to work off this old stock of silver without affecting the monometallic basis upon which its currency is now solidly established and upon which it will be maintained.

Riot, But Will Be Released

on Bail

PITTSBURG, Nov. 23 .- The trial of Sylvester Critchlow, charged with murder in connection with the Homestead riot, was brought to a close this evening by the jury bringing in a verdict of acquittal. When court convened today argument by counsel was resumed. Judge Kennedy began his charge at 2:35 p. m. The court defined murder and its various degrees and what constituted each of the grades. "If the jury is satisfied that the defendant took part in the riot of July 6, which resulted in the death of T. J. O'Connor, and that it was common intent of such rioters to resist the landing of these men on the barges to the extent of taking life, then he is guilty of murder in the first degree, as are all who took part in the riot. If you believe the rioters met for a common purpose, to resist the landing, but not to the extent of taking life, then a verdict of murder in the second could be rendered."

When the judge closed the jury re-tired and after deliberating for two and a half hours they, at 6 p. m., brought in a verdict of acquittal. Mr. Critch-low, however, will be held on the charge of riot. He will probably be released on bail tomorrow.

At the first trial Curtis' strongest point was testi-mony to the effect that at the time of the shooting Grant had two prisoners under arrest, and that it was the other one that did the shooting and ran in one direction, while Curtis ran in another. Cann asserts that he witnessed the shooting; that Grant had but one prisoner; that he saw the prisoner draw his revolver, shoot the policeman and run away. Cann's testiwho have sworn that they saw a very tall man on the north side of Folsom street at the time of the shooting. This man is believed to be Cann, as he is six feet five inches in height, and none of the other witnesses who were on that side of the street approaches him in stature.

Previous to taking the dose herself, she gave her 3-year-old boy, who had been ailing for some time past with cholera infantum, a dose of the drug for the purpose of easing its pain. The dose proved to be too large, and the child died from the effects of it at 6 o'clock this evening.
